

Joe Pulichino, Ed.D.
[REDACTED]
[REDACTED]

[REDACTED]
[REDACTED]

Objective

- Position in the US or abroad as an ESL/EFL instructor or program director.

Skills and Competencies

- Dynamic and results oriented ESL/EFL educator committed to inculcating a passion for learning and creating multicultural awareness through teaching the fundamentals of the English language.
- Exceptional teaching, instructional design, and course development skills.
- Widely published and recognized for leadership, vision, and innovation in the field of eLearning systems, curriculum design, and online instruction.
- Graduate study and professional practice in: Linguistics, Theories of Learning and Language Acquisition, ESL/EFL Methods and Materials, Advanced English Grammar, Pronunciation, and Cross-Cultural Communication.
- Significant global program management experience.

Education

TESL/TEFL Certificate
University of California, Berkeley

Ed.D. - Education Leadership and Technology
Pepperdine University, Malibu, CA

M.A. - English
Rutgers University, New Brunswick, NJ

B.A. - English
Boston College, Chestnut Hill, MA

Teaching Experience

Over ten years experience in classroom and online teaching:

- Rutgers University (five years) – full time instructor teaching ESL to foreign students studying in the USA
- Athena Learning Systems (ten years) – ESL instructor for private and corporate clients focusing on business writing, speaking and listening, presentation skills, test preparation, and cross cultural communication

- Myngle.com (one year) – online EFL instructor teaching at all levels to students around the world
- Pepperdine University (one year) – adjunct faculty member teaching leadership and education technology to graduate students in Master's Degree program

ESL/EFL Curriculum Design Experience

- Myngle.com (one year) – Designed and developed Myngle's curriculum and courses for CEFR Level C1 program in English.
- ASAP Ingles (one year) – Designing curriculum for CEFR standard train-the-teacher program for Colombian Ministry of Education.
- McGraw-Hill (one year) – Designed prototype of electronic text book and eLearning course delivery system.

Education Program Management Experience

Over ten years experience managing and administering corporate education and training programs for companies such as Cisco Systems, Global Knowledge, The Human Capital Institute, KPMG, Sybase, and others:

Research

Published over 30 papers and articles in industry and academic publications on a variety of topics, including second language acquisition.

References

Reference contact information will be furnished upon request

- Dr. Sedique Popal – College of Alameda
- Dr. David West – University of California, Berkeley
- Dr. Jack McManus – Pepperdine University
- Dr. Laura Zieger – New Jersey City University