PROGRAM DESCRIPTION

A Bachelor of Science in Business Administration in Global Business with a concentration in human resource management highlights the importance of managing human resources within the context of a global business framework. It offers you an opportunity to obtain proficiency in management concepts, skills and techniques, particularly as they are applied to strategic human resource management efforts.

The degree focuses on the critical role of effectively managing one of the most valuable resources of an organization—its human resources. Success involves understanding both the organization’s needs as well as how to best meet those needs with the resources available in the labor market. Human resource management involves personnel decisions, performance reviews, job specifications, compensation decisions as well as training and development.
