I was born and raised in Ho Chi Minh City, or it is also known as Saigon. This bustling and dynamic city has definitely shaped my personality too. The people, the street, the food and the culture, each piece is a ton of memories in my heart. Saigon is a very populated city that seems to never sleep. It is a tasteful blending of contemporary and traditional elements. Saigon people – or we usually call them Saigonners love to explore food, take pictures, and gather with friends at coffee shops. I want to become a tourist guide because I want to interpret and show something interesting and unique in my culture, heritage to all of the international tourists. Not only in Saigon but also Vietnam in general, I want to show them our special traditions and special ethics here. I really like to travel so being a tourist has always been my dream since I was a little kid. Whenever my family traveled, I was always their tourist guide that handled and led my family to places. Traveling and exploring new places, learning about different cultures is really attracting me.
